

ASSIGNMENT # 03

Date: 29 - April - 2025

Lesson

The woman was pretty and charming but born in the family of a clerk. Like other such women, she had no hope of being well-known or dress properly. She married a clerk and started a modest life.

However; with time she got bored of it. She felt envious of others.

Often thought of living a better life dressing better such that she was admired by others. Moreso, when she made a friend and seeing her live luxuriously she got jealous of her..

One day her husband brought an invitation to an event thinking her wife would be glad to see it, on the contrary she knew that invitation and let out tears.

Her husband shocked by this inquired about what happened. As she told him she needed a dress, the husband gave her the money he had saved for a trip to enjoy with his friends. She ended up borrowing a diamond necklace from her friend. She then went to the event stood out the most even admired by the minister. She was looking the most beautiful and charming.

~~now~~ It was like her dream had come true. She was joyful as the day ended and she had to go back home. Once home she sat in front of the mirror to realize her necklace was lost. She alongside her husband were into severe distress. The husband went out & searched for the necklace, placed a reward and even told the police.

After a week they couldn't find it hence they had no choice but to replace it.
The husband went into debt took out all saving bought a necklace that was similar for Fr. 36,000 francs. It was returned to her friend. For the next 10 years the husband had to work double shifts even doing doing extra work and the wife had to do all the chores even bargaining for fruits and stuff to save whatever they could. At last the debt was paid; She met her friend still young and beautiful, told her about the necklace being lost and replaced just to find the original was only worth a few hundred francs.
